Strategic Entry into the U.S. Medtech Market for Canadian Firms

Are you seeking guidance and information about entry to the U.S. market for your innovative new medical technology? How valuable would it be to hear from world-class experts about the issues most relevant to the decisions and challenges you are likely to face, and to sit down with one to pose questions and receive answers targeted to your business?

With a wealth of experience in their respective specialities, the experts in this seminar have the knowledge and tools that Canadian medical device companies need to chart a successful path to commercialization in the largest medical device market in the world.
